On January 27, 2020, the Durham Catholic District School Board of Trustees approved the commencement of a Brooklin French Immersion (FI) Study to review the St. Leo Catholic School and St. John Paul II Catholic School FI programs which currently serve students in the Brooklin community. The study is intended to address projected enrolment decline and viability of the FI programs at each school. Through a series of public meetings, the study will examine existing programs and make recommendations to ensure long-term sustainability of FI programming in Brooklin.

In keeping with public health expectations to maintain social distancing for the prevention of COVID-19, the meetings will take place online.
